Total Participants: 54 postgraduates of MMCH&RC

This two-day workshop appeared to have provided a comprehensive overview of the essential aspects of research methodology and protocol writing. The sessions covered key topics ranging from framing research questions to ethical considerations and data analysis.

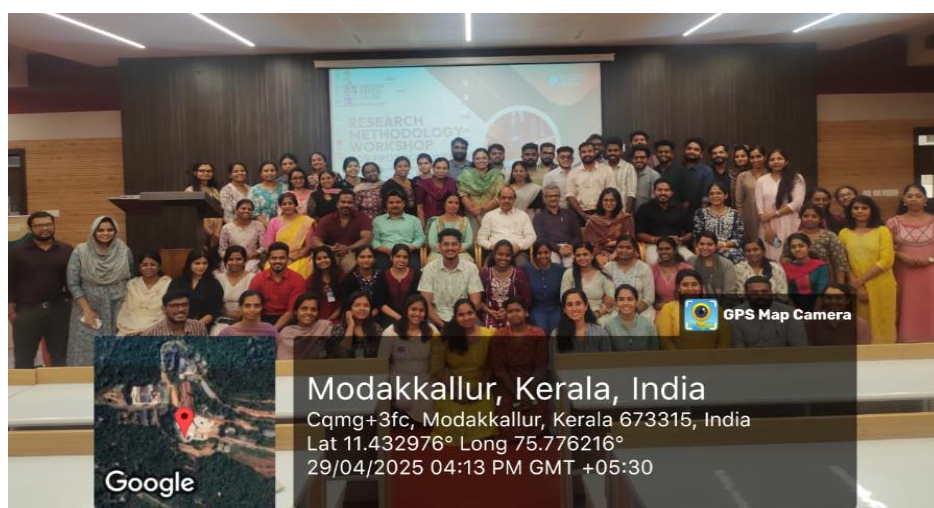

Inaugural session was graced by our esteemed Chairman, our Principal, Vice-Principal PG, Vice- Principal UG, our Secretary.

The sessions on research methodology were handled by the faculties of Community Medicine. Dr. Paul Mathai, Professor, Department of Pharmacology, who is also the Member Secretary of Ethical Committee, took the session on ethics and the software for protocol submission.

Dr. Lakshmi C, Professor, Department of Ophthalmology and Secretary, Scientific Committee took the session on guidelines for protocol submission.

At the end in the valedictory function, principal sir gave the concluding remarks and later the certificates were distributed to the participants.

The inclusion of group activities and hands-on sessions would have facilitated active learning and application of the concepts. The participation of postgraduates from various departments, suggests a multidisciplinary approach to research training. The final day culminated in protocol presentations and a doubt-clearing session, offering valuable feedback and support to the postgraduate students in developing their research proposals.
